architectural + design

The image shows a large, disorganized pile of green plastic components. These components appear to be parts from a mold, possibly for injection molding, and feature various shapes, including rectangular frames, curved sections, and small circular holes. The lighting is somewhat uneven, with some areas appearing brighter than others, highlighting the texture and form of the plastic. In the bottom right corner, the word "Content" is written in a bold, white, sans-serif font, standing out against the green background.
